Delivering brand consistency
to your fingertips

JohnsonDiversey iMap brings you:

- The complete picture
- Faster access to results
- Visibility and control
- Global consistency

The complete picture

JohnsonDiversey's iMAP system is a web based survey program for the collection and reporting of data for:

- Quality management
- Food safety auditing
- Sanitation checks

Faster access to results

JohnsonDiversey's iMap system exploits the power of Internet to communicate hygiene and food safety results almost instantly.

An audit is carried out on your company's cleaning and hygiene systems, food safety measures and product applications. Handheld computers may be used.

Once data is uploaded, within seconds a full report is obtainable via the web that gives a complete picture of sanitation strengths and weaknesses anywhere in your organisation. Faster access to results lets you act immediately upon problems.

Visibility and control

With clear information at your fingertips the system gives you better visibility of performance across all your sites. And with drill down, trend analysis and issue identification you can focus on the source of any problems and assign resources specifically to address them. This complete visibility lets you monitor progress over time and measure the impact and effectiveness of corrective actions.

Global consistency

JohnsonDiversey's iMap provides the information you need application by application, department by department, area by area, site by site, country by country. It allows you to maintain the same standards of hygiene and safety throughout your business, anywhere in the world.

The program is customised to your specific operations and requirements, providing a truly unique online solution for your sanitation and food safety operations.

- Gives a clear focus on issues for better use of your resources
- Allows for benchmarking across sites
- All customer audits are customised

iMap exploits the power of the Internet to communicate hygiene and food safety results almost instantly.
